

WE NEED AN ANSWER MR. PRESIDENT SKIT from Studio C

3 Characters, male or female

Setting: In the Oval Office of the White House.

PERSON 1: Mr. President! We need your final say!

PRESIDENT: What's happened?

PERSON 2: There's a situation at the Capitol Building.

PERSON 1: The hostiles say that you must meet their demands or they will blow up the building.

PERSON 2: It's up to you, Mr. President. What should we do?

PERSON 1: There is little time, Sir.

PERSON 2: We need a decision.

PRESIDENT: There's no time for games. Let's nuke them!

PERSON 2: I'm sorry, sir, did you say, nuke them?

PERSON 1: You know, the capitol building is only about a mile away from here... That' would kill us all.

PERSON 2: Probably the worst decision we could make.

PERSON 1: Might want to reconsider, Mr. President.

PERSON 2: And needless to say, we are running out of time.

PRESIDENT: Alright. Let's blow up the building.

PERSON 2: Okay, sir, that gives us the same kind of problems we had with the nuke.

PERSON 1: Let's stop and think about how many important people are in that building.

PRESIDENT: It's just congress...

PERSON 2: Fair point, but sir, blowing up the building is what the hostiles are threatening to do already.

PRESIDENT: I know. That's why they'll never see it coming.

PERSON 1: Yes, but the end result would be the same, which is bad.

PERSON 2: Do you have any other ideas, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT: Let's flood them.

PERSON 1: Sir, that would be just as dangerous. Where are we going to get that amount of water?

PRESIDENT: Noxious gas.

PERSON 2: Sir, think less violently?

PRESIDENT: What about Bruce Willis? Can we get him to go in?

PERSON 1: Sir, he's just an actor...

PRESIDENT: No, I've seen his stuff. He's really good.

PERSON 2: No...

PRESIDENT: Fine. Relocation to the moon.

PERSON 1: Are you kidding me?

PRESIDENT: I'M SORRY, OKAY THIS IS JUST REALLY STRESSFUL!!!

PERSON 1: You have literally two minutes, sir.

PERSON 2: Think, Mr. President. What should we do?

PRESIDENT: I've got it! What if we called them, and asked them not to blow it up.

PERSON 1: We... could call them...

PERSON 2: Great idea, Mr. President. I knew we could count on you.

PRESIDENT: Crisis averted. Well done team! You've done your country proud. (PRESIDENT leaves).

PERSON 1: Seriously though... What should we do?

PERSON 2: I have no idea...